

Colin Cabbage is a dedicated producer at Swanson Insurance Group with nearly 8 years of experience in sales and 6 years of expertise as a producer in the insurance industry. A driven and results-oriented professional, Colin has a proven track record in sales production, leveraging his background to provide top-tier service and solutions to clients.

Colin began his career in sales working for his family's companies at trade and sportsman shows, where he honed his skills in customer interaction and business development. Prior to joining Swanson Insurance Group, Colin held sales-focused roles at Allstate and Trucordia, where he consistently excelled in driving sales and fostering client relationships.

Colin attended both The University of South Alabama and Oregon State University in business, which has helped him build a strong foundation in business principles that he applies to his work in insurance. He is committed to continuous growth and delivering exceptional service to his clients.

Outside of his professional endeavors, Colin is a devoted outdoorsman with a passion for fishing, hunting, and exploring nature. When not in the office, you can find him on the river fishing or in the mountains hunting. Colin also enjoys dirt biking, snowboarding, and spending time with family and friends on the ski boat. He is particularly proud to support his sister's participation in cow horse events, showing his strong family ties and love for outdoor activities.

Colin values a healthy work-life balance and enjoys every opportunity to connect with nature and his loved ones.
